NCHEPM VICE CHAIR JAVIER INCLÁN AND FAA HEPM MIGDALIA GONZALEZ FEATURED ON PODCAST

WASHINGTON – The National Council of Hispanic Employment Program Managers (NCHEPM), the nation’s premiere authority on efforts to improve and accelerate Hispanic participation and representation in the Federal government, announced today the release of the latest episode of the Treasury Department’s podcast and blog series, “How Government Built This: Strengthening and Empowering Our People & Culture – The Importance and Value of Mentoring,” featuring NCHPM Vice Chair Javier Inclán and the Federal Aviation Administration’s (FAA) Hispanic Employment Program Manager (HEPM), Migdalia González.

In the episode, Inclán and González discuss the importance and benefits of mentoring, and how a good support network can help employees develop personally and professionally to achieve their career and life goals. They also describe the characteristics of a good mentor, and the reciprocal benefits of the mentor-mentee relationship.

“How Government Built This” is a podcast and blog post series developed by the Department of the Treasury’s Bureau of the Fiscal Service Office of Financial Innovation and Transformation (FIT) in collaboration with the American Council for Technology and Industry Advisory Council \(ACT-IAC\). This series will spotlight trailblazers exploring the intersection of innovation and Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Access or DEIA across government.

The episode, co-sponsored by the NCHEPM, aired June 13, 2023 on the Bureau of Fiscal Service’s website and may now be streamed online anytime via all major podcasting platforms.

For more than 25 years, the NCHEPM has worked to share vital information and resources to assist Hispanic Employment Program Managers and other DEIA practitioners in building coalitions and networks to enhance the recruitment, development and retention of Hispanics in the federal workforce. The NCHEPM is implementing programs and initiatives to inform the work of these practitioners and thereby improve the success and sustainability of the work they undertake.
